

2017 Gipsie Jack Langhorne Creek Sauvignon Blanc

*Vintage: 2017    Grape Variety: Sauvignon Blanc 100%
Region: Langhorne Creek, South Australia*

Gipsie Jack is now in its second year of producing a Langhorne Creek Sauvignon Blanc. After several years abroad producing a Marlborough Sauvignon Blanc, then a brief batch or two from the Adelaide Hills.

Viticulture Notes

The vineyard that supplies fruit for the Gipsie Jack Sauvignon Blanc is from Ben's outlaws "The Willson Family". The vines are spur pruned and trained to vertical shoot positioned canopy (this is fairly standard for growing good quality Sauvignon Blanc in Langhorne Creek). The soils are free draining, sandy loam over a red clay layer, which are ideal soils for growing Sauvignon Blanc and gives good vine balance.

Winemaking

The fruit was picked in as a single parcel. The fruit is then pressed, and the free run juice is cold settled prior to being racked and fermented cool. After a short period on lees post fermentation, the wine is then racked and stabilised to make a fresh, balanced, fruit driven, refreshing Sauvignon Blanc.

Tasting Notes

This wine displays a lot of varietal Sauvignon Blanc characters of passionfruit and tropical fruit along with a nice hint of citrus in the background. The palate is fresh and balanced with some texture from short period of lees contact.
